SHRED IT EVENT TO BENEFIT HARVEST FOR HUNGER

ASHTABULA, OH (April, 2013) – The Ashtabula Branch of Wells Fargo Advisors will be sponsoring their annual “Shred It Event” on Saturday, April 20th from 9 am until 12 noon at their office at 3705 State Road. “This post-tax season is a great time to clean out those unwanted personal papers, and shredding is an excellent way to help guard against identity theft.” says Dan Huffman, Managing Director-Investment Officer. The shredding and coffee are complimentary and participants will have the opportunity to make voluntary check donation, payable to Harvest for Hunger.

Cleveland Foodbank’s “Harvest for Hunger 2013” is a very important campaign. Unfortunately, the number of people turning to hunger centers for emergency food continues to rise. Harvest for Hunger is an important support for these hunger centers. The poor economy, continued unemployment, and higher food and heating bills are forcing more people to turn to local hot meal programs, food pantries and shelters for assistance.

Because they are able to buy food at a reduced price, cash or check contributions are preferred. A one dollar donation to Harvest for Hunger can provide enough food for four nutritious meals to hungry families.

The Cleveland Foodbank supplies the majority of the food used in local hot meal sites, shelters and food pantries. They work closely with other Northeast Ohio hunger relief organizations, providing food and nonfood products to hunger centers throughout the area. “The Cleveland Foodbank has been great to work with.” reports James E. Mayer, Jr., First Vice President-Investment Officer. “All donations to Harvest for Hunger collected at our office will benefit services located in Ashtabula County.” If you would like additional information about the “Shred It Event”, please call the Wells Fargo office at 440-992-1515.
